

Small Stories Studio is a creative collaborative based in Birmingham, Alabama. The goal of Small Stories is to help tell true stories that bring about hope in the lives of others, because every story is significant, and big things happen when we are willing to share our lives with one another.

Founded in 2023 by advertising veteran, Billy Ivey, the group has already published two books (Long Is the Way; Napkinisms) and will release its first mini-documentary, "A place to be fed," later this summer.
